

Wizwig Profile Ribs

If you can throw a cylinder on the wheel, you can use a Wizwig forming rib to easily, quickly create mugs, bowls, goblets, steins, tumblers, and other forms. Modify or combine the basic forms to take shapes to your own personal next level. For production potters, these tools make it easy to make matching sets.

- Each rib has 2 profiles and several lip or rim shapes.
- Made of 18-gauge stainless steel, laser-cut to shape.
- They do not flex or bend, and are very resistant to rust.

Princeton Catalyst Tools

Not quite brushes, not quite palette knives, not quite ribs – but the best of all three! Catalyst tools are made from flexible silicone to give you a new form of creative expression with clay, glaze, paint, and slip. Wedges and Contours are ergonomically designed to fit your hand, so you have a direct tactile interaction with your work. They’re good with clay, glazes, and slip. Mini-Blades have the working edges of wedges, but mounted on artist brush handles. For cleanup, you can pop the blades off the handles and put them back on when dry. Discounts apply to multiples of the same item number.

Xiem Ribs

Light Blue Rigid Ribs

These polypropylene ribs are great for shaping, smoothing and finishing clay in tight areas. They’re also great for detail work. The thermoplastic polymer material provides strength and rigidity, and it’s resistant to fatigue. To clean them, wash with soap and water, then blot dry.

PCR1 thru PCR6 are $4.95 ea ~ PCR7 & PCR8 are $5.95 ea

Blue & Orange Silicone Ribs

Xiem’s silicone ribs fit just right in your hand! Great for working with a variety of forms in wheelthrowing and handbuilding techniques. To clean them, wash with soap and water, then blot dry.

Blue ribs are stiffer - orange ribs are softer
