HAKE BRUSHES

The BH Hake Series have bamboo handles that hold more hair and give better control than the flat wooden handles. The result is a thicker brush that holds more water while remaining soft and flexible. The number after "BH" refers to how many bamboo holders are in the brush handle.

ORTHODOX CALLIGRAPHY BRUSHES

Unlike watercolor, oil and most other paintbrushes, Sumi brushes are composed of two separate parts. The central core, which determines the height and basic function of the brush, is made of relatively stiff hairs gathered to form a tapered point. The outer wrapping consists of softer hairs which are selected for their greater water-holding capacity and for facilitating smooth strokes. The hairs of the inner core and of the outer wrapping are the same length and come to a point when dipped into water. The hair structure ensures smooth maneuverability and dynamic strokes whether light or heavy pressure is applied.

CA1 - CA5 brushes use a combination of horse and badger hair for smooth brushing and to hold water better. Measurements in parenthesis are size of brush heads.
